Health & Human Services Interpreter Training

Are you bilingual in English and any other language?
Would you like to help a non-English speaking person understand their health-care providers and others involved with their human services needs?

Being bilingual does not guarantee you have the skills necessary to be a health and human services interpreter. You must remain neutral in highly emotional situations including being able to translate complex medical conditions to help individual understand what treatment is necessary.

Health & Human Services Interpreter Training

$55 per class

Module I - January 13 & 14

Module II - February 17 & 18

Module III - March 17 & 18
